

THE LAND WE ARE offering is in South Texas.

It is an open prairie, ready for the plow. The soil changes from a black, sandy loam to a black hog-wallow, easy of cultivation and very productive. Nearly all kinds of crops, fruits and vegetables known to the American farmer will grow in South Texas, and his profits per acre are many times more than that of any other farmer, in any other section.

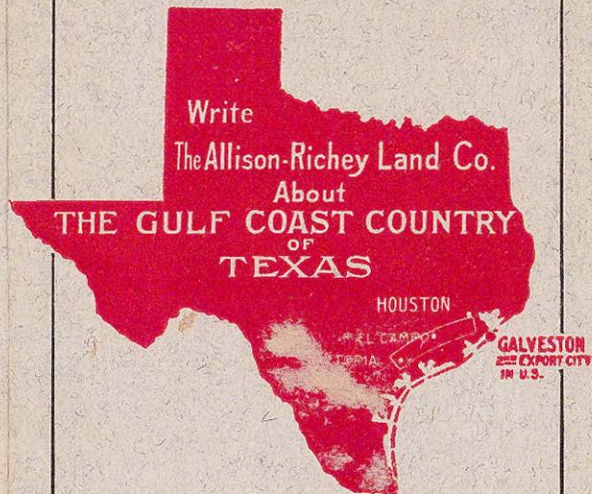

The rainfall is ample. Water abundant and excellent. The climate ideal. Freight rates are low, and the religious and educational advantages unexcelled.
