Texas Is the Greatest Cotton Producing State in the Union.

THE LAND OF BIG OPPORTUNITIES

The largest thing in the United States is the State of Texas. The Lone Star State, as it is familiarly known, contains one-twelfth of the tillable area of the whole United States. If farmed intensively, this State could produce all the food needed by our hundred million citizens, including meat, bread, butter, milk, eggs, sugar, honey, vegetables, fruit, berries, nuts, fish, oysters and a vast assortment of other things. More than this, there is ample gas and coal within the State of Texas to cook it as well.

Texas needs more farmers to till her fertile acres, and more manufacturers to utilize the products grown here and develop the natural resources and raw materials that occur in such profusion.

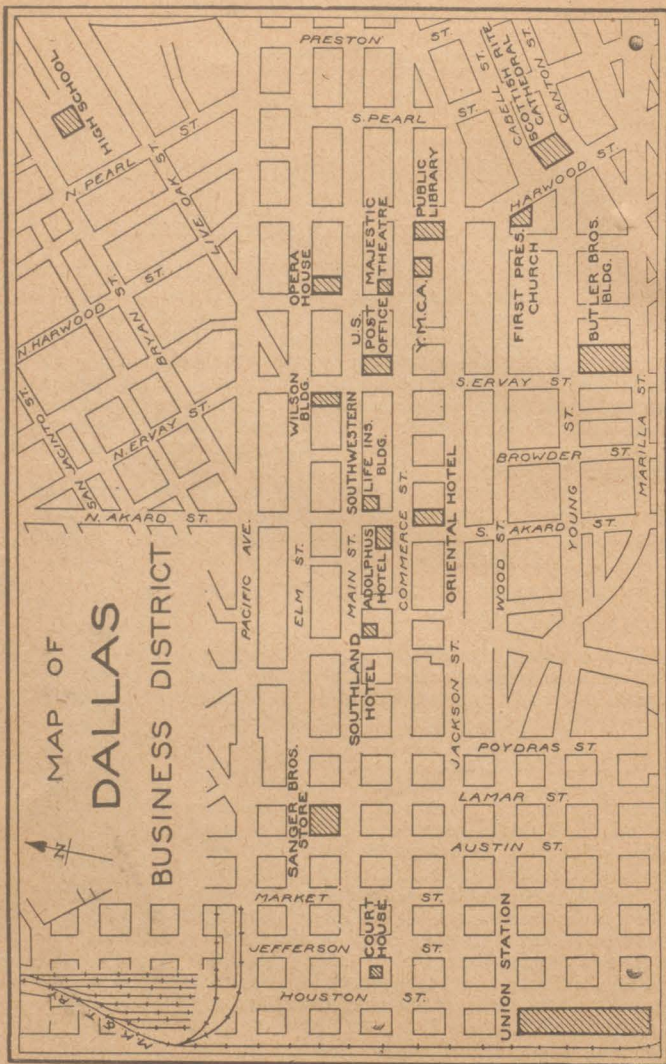

FARM TEXAS THOROUGHLY AND EVERYONE CAN EAT

The arable lands of Texas, if thoroughly cultivated, could produce far more farm products than any other State in the Union. Already it ranks amongst the Big Three which, according to the Annual Report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, produce annually the greatest total value of farm products. Iowa and Illinois, neither of them having over one-fifth the total area of Texas, are this State's only contenders for first place. Lack of man-power to properly cultivate its lands is the only drawback that keeps Texas from outstripping all other States in farm production.

Texas needs farmers to settle and develop the vast areas of high-grade lands now used as open cattle ranges and to intensively farm immense areas that are now cultivated only in a superficial way. To the farmer who comes to Texas now the State can offer the rarest and richest crop a farmer ever has.

THE RICHEST CROP EVER HARVESTED

Land values in many parts of Texas are comparatively low at the present time. It is demand that regulates the price of land, and when there is more land than the population can use to the best advantage, the value is naturally low in sympathy with the lack of demand. To the new settler Texas offers the most profitable harvest that any farmer ever reaped—the increase in the value of his land. This is the one crop that has made the farmer of our great farming States rich without work. There is only one such crop off the land, and the time to plant is now, and the place is Texas.

WHERE THOSE BALMY BREEZES BLOW

Covering an area equal to the size of half a dozen States, Texas naturally has climates and climates. Along the four hundred miles of Gulf Coast, the climate is tempered to semi-tropical by the breezes off the Gulf, being warmer in winter and cooler in summer than it would otherwise be. During the winter months the Gulf Coast country is one great health resort, to which visitors come by the thousands to enjoy the luxury of the tropical winter. In the northern portions of the State, and especially in the Panhandle country, the winters are of the kind to be found in any mildly semi-temperate zone. Texas winters outside of the Gulf area include occasional snow storms, or what the natives term "northwesters." However, it can be truthfully said that Texas has no regions of arctic cold or equatorial heat, the temperature for the State in general being mild.

TEXAS THE WINTER RESORT

RECREATION AND BUSINESS FEATURES OF THE LEADING CITIES

All of the cities of central and eastern Texas are natural winter resorts to which thousands of visitors flock to avoid the northern winters. Here the visitor can stay in the open picking oranges, oleanders and roses, or bathing in the surf of the Gulf, forgetful of the zero mark on the thermometer.

There are numerous large and well-equipped resort hotels adjacent to natural playgrounds. The golf links, equal to the best in the country, are kept in condition for use every day in the year. For those who enjoy yachting, the land-locked bays along the coast offer ideal courses. Surf bathing and the finest of fishing can be enjoyed all the year. Game birds in unbelievable quantities, geese, ducks, quail and snipe, make their winter homes here.

DALLAS.—The largest city of the State and one of the liveliest, most up-to-date towns on earth is Dallas, on the Trinity River. Here is a modern little city with sky-scrapers of the latest designs, fine theaters, country clubs, golf courses, parks, boulevards, colleges and everything else that most any other city can boast of.

Dallas is the great jobbing center of the State. It is the commercial hub of Texas. Here are several hundred factories. Here is a great inland cotton market. Here, also, is the cordial handshake of friendship and the true spirit of southern hospitality.

Good hunting and fishing are to be had near Dallas. Newly surfaced highways offer alluring drives through the wonderful farming country surrounding the city. Dallas is a cosmopolitan winter resort in every sense of the word.

HOUSTON.—One of the commercial cities of Texas is Houston, located but fifty miles from the Gulf. Here is an important railroad center, with manufacturing as its greatest asset. Lumber, oil, rice and cotton are the important industries, backed up by a large jobbing trade.

Houston is also a modern, up-to-date city, with many sky-scrapers, fine hotels, shops and theaters. It has a ship channel connecting with the Gulf, making it a shipping port.

Houston offers many interests to the winter visitor. It is known as the city of flowers, and this stands for a great deal along the Gulf Coast, where flowers are so abundant. There is a good eighteen-hole golf course at one of the most attractive country clubs of the South. Good duck and wild turkey hunting can be had nearby. The shell roads, fine and plentiful, winding through parks and woods, are a joy to the automobilist. Excellent hotel accommodations are provided for the visitor.

The battle of San Jacinto was fought at Houston and the battlefield is now a State park. In this battle, General Sam Houston, bitter with the remembrance of the massacre of his comrades at the Alamo and Mission Goliad, attacked on April 21, 1836, the superior forces of Santa Ana and completely annihilated them and freed Texas from Mexican domination forever.

SAN ANTONIO.—Here is a land of perpetual springtime where roses bloom in winter and where palms and semi-tropical fruits can be found in abundance. San Antonio is liberally supplied with first class hotels, where the tourist can be sure of bright social life. It is a far-famed health resort, with many curative sulphur wells.

While San Antonio is quite a ways from the coast, it is not far from Medina Lake, a considerable sized body of water between towering cliffs, that will appeal to all who love good bass fishing.

San Antonio is located in a farming and stock raising district and is quite a commercial and railroad center. The winter visitor will find a modern city with a variety of amusements and numerous places of scenic and historic interest to visit.

The Alamo, shrine of Texas patriotism, stands in the center of the city. Here Bowie, Crockett and Travis, with less than two hundred men, stood out to the bitter end against a force of four thousand Mexicans, and with their lives helped pay the price of Texas liberty in 1836.

In the vicinity of San Antonio are the picturesque ruins of several Franciscan missions built about 1700. Many of these are still in a remarkable state of preservation. Most wonderful of these is Mission San Jose, built in 1720. Its ruined walls, cloisters and towers, its statuary and carving, are ranked among the finest examples of Spanish art and architecture.

FORT WORTH.—In the cattle and oil country of northern Texas is the city of Fort Worth, which commends itself to tourists by reason of its genial climate and many points of interest. In the early days it was the big cow town. It is still the big cow town, but now in the sense of a modern market for livestock. In the early days of March each year, the city holds a livestock show that brings forth the best blooded horses, cattle and other livestock that have replaced the longhorns and cow ponies of pioneer days.

Fort Worth is a busy modern city with wonderful boulevards along the Trinity River and around Lake Worth. It has a number of modern hotels. The mean annual temperature is 65 degrees, snow rarely falls and the freezing point is seldom reached.

GALVESTON.—The great Gulf port of Texas is located on an island. Surrounded by the warm waters of the Gulf Stream, the pleasure seeker in Galveston may spend the entire time out of doors.

Salt-water fishing as fine as offered anywhere can be enjoyed here. Tarpon, Spanish mackerel, speckled trout, redfish, pompano, all are here and in fighting trim. Hunting will be found on a short auto trip into the mainland to the heart of the quail and jacksnipe country. Deer and bear hunting may be had at no great distance.

Galveston County, with its two hundred miles of shell-surfaced roads and thirty miles of hard packed beach, offers real bliss for the motorist. Along the beach there is no speed limit.

To accommodate the constantly increasing winter visitors, Galveston has an assortment of modern hotels, suited to all tastes and all pocketbooks.

CORPUS CHRISTI.—Overlooking the broad expanse of Corpus Christi Bay is the city of Corpus Christi, the Naples of the Gulf, endowed by nature as a health and pleasure resort. Corpus Christi knows none of the rigors of a northern clime. Here the winters are always mild and open.

The city is well equipped with good hotels and rooming houses. In addition to these are hundreds of cozily furnished cottages to be had at reasonable rentals. Golfing, motoring, boating, fishing and bathing are among the daily recreations.

Motoring to the inland country is a favorite trip. A new two-mile causeway, spanning Nueces Bay, provides a splendid auto road to Rockport, Aransas Pass and nearby points.

BEAUMONT.—In 1900, when 20,000-barrel gushers began spouting on Spindle Top, Beaumont became world-famous in a day. The oil industry is represented now by four large refineries. The climate of Beaumont is similar to that of the other Gulf Coast resorts. Fishing, boating, hunting, motoring, golf and surf bathing are all available. Duck, geese, quail and other game abound. In the Big Thicket, twenty miles away, is still greater excitement for the hunter. Here can be found turkeys bear and other large game.

There are more than a hundred miles of hard-surfaced roads near the city. Hotels provide ample accommodations.

Winter Time at Corpus Christi

PORT ARTHUR.—Although one of the newest of the southern seaports, the docks and shipping facilities of Port Arthur make it one of the largest and most complete along the Gulf Coast. It is not located on the Gulf itself, but on Lake Sabine, and connected with the Gulf by a deep waterway.

Being also connected with the adjacent oil fields by pipe-lines, Port Arthur ships vast quantities of oil to all parts of the world. The rice and lumber industries are important.

Port Arthur has a climate that is the delight of the winter visitor and ideal for all outdoor sports. Here will be found excellent fishing, boating, bathing, tennis and golf. Plenty of hotel accommodations.

WACO.—In central Texas is the busy commercial city of Waco, built on the site of an old Indian village of the same name. Waco is an important jobbing and railroad center. It is considered one of the prettiest cities in the State and is noted for the number and beauty of its parks.

There is bathing and boating in the Bosque and Brazos Rivers, which flow together just outside the city. There is a good golf course, excellent roads and many other things that please the visitor.

The Texas Cotton Palace Exposition is held here during November of each year, continuing for two weeks.

AUSTIN.—The capital of the Lone Star State is Austin. The state house building is considered one of the finest buildings in the country and among the largest of the nation's public buildings. Here will be found the State Library and an extensive State Museum, with a liberal collection of historic relics.

Travis County has a thousand miles of excellent automobile roads. Lake Austin and the Colorado River give ample opportunity for bathing, boating and fishing. Austin enjoys a delightful winter climate. The hotel accommodations are of the best.

EL PASO.—The metropolis of western Texas is El Paso, the gateway city, located where Texas, New Mexico and Old Mexico join. El Paso is an important railway terminal, the headquarters for the mining interests of this section and a military headquarters. Just across the Rio Grande, which is bridged here, is the quaint, bedraggled old Mexican town of Juarez. A short street car ride takes the visitor from the modern American city, with its beautiful parks and buildings, into this town of adobe huts typical of the primitive life just across our border.

El Paso has short, dry winters and the many parks and plazas are pleasant loafing places. There are many fine hotels and an eighteen-hole golf course. Near El Paso is the wonderfully fertile irrigated district of the Rio Grande Valley.

MARLIN.—Thirty miles south of Waco is Marlin, the water of whose hot mineral wells possesses exceptional medicinal qualities. Modern sanitariums, hotels and bath-houses will be found here. There is fishing in the Brazos River and many beauty spots along its banks.

The city is on various State and National highways, so enjoys good roads. Here each spring come the New York Giants to prepare for the pennant race.

MINERAL WELLS.—A noted health resort is Mineral Wells, fifty-three miles west of Fort Worth. Nestling between two mountains and spreading out into the adjacent valleys about one thousand feet above sea level, it offers the tourist in addition to the benefits of its medicinal waters, a delightful climate and many forms of recreation.

Tennis, horseback riding and hunting are among the many sports. There is a country club with a nine-hole golf course.

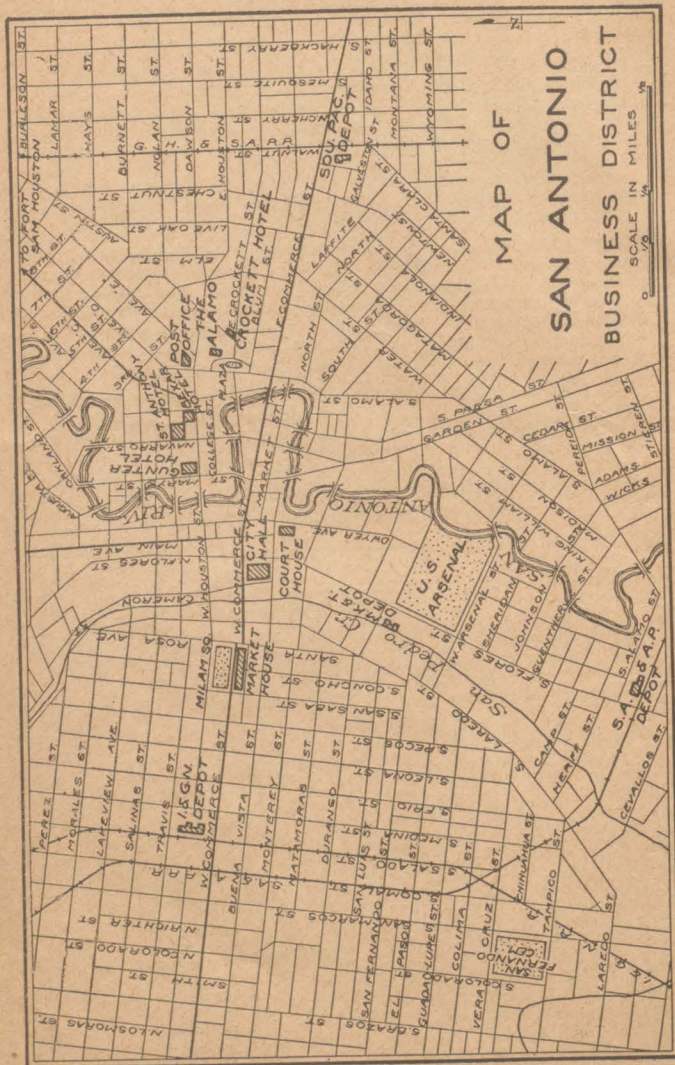

BROWNSVILLE.—The historic city of Brownsville enjoys the distinction of being located at the most southern point in the western United States. It is an interesting combination of Spanish and American customs and inhabitants. There are good auto roads here, interesting irrigated land districts to see with boating, fishing and many things of general interest to see and do.

AUTOMOBILE ROAD SECTION
IMPROVING THE BYWAYS

Considering its great size, Texas is already fairly well supplied with surfaced roads. In the southern part of the State shells are used and many miles of fine boulevards are surfaced with this material. Through the northern part, and especially in the black land belt, roads are being surfaced with gravel, and in some cases with bituminous material. In Western Texas the abundance of gravel and rock makes it possible to have good roads without an excessive burden on the taxpayers in this sparsely settled region. The dry climate insures the permanency of these roads.

In planning cross-state trips it is always wise to select the through routes, as indicated in the following logs and by the names and more pronounced marking on the accompanying map. These are the main traveled routes and receive more care. Supply and repair stations can also be found at more frequent intervals along these routes.

CLASON COMMERCIAL INDEX OF TEXAS CITIES AND TOWNS

EXPLANATION

POPULATION—In the column at the left of the name of the town, under the abbreviation "Pop." are figures to denote the population.

COUNTIES—Following the name of the town, is the name of the county in which it is located.

ELEVATIONS—Below the abbreviation "Alt." are figures indicating the altitude of larger towns above sea level.

KEY—The letter and figures in the right hand column under the word "Key" refer respectively to the letter on the top and bottom of the accompanying map and the figures on each side of it; thus indicating the location of the town on the map.

RESOURCES—A brief description gives the industries and resources of the cities.

HOTELS—Under the cities are given the names of one or more hotels.

CONDENSED FACTS ABOUT TEXAS

The population is, 4,661,027. Austin is the State capital.

The total land area of Texas is 262,398 square miles, with a water area of 3,498 square miles. The extreme length north and south is about 735 miles, while the breadth east and west is about 775 miles.

El Capitan, 9,020 feet altitude, is the highest point in the State. Other high points are: Baldy Peak, or Mt. Livermore, 8,382 feet; Sierra Blanca, 7,000 feet; Franklin Mountains, 7,152 feet, and South Franklin Peak, 5,591 feet. The two latter are situated just north of El Paso.

The principal forests are in East Texas, and the prevailing growth is pine. In the western part of the forest region oak, hickory and ash are common.

Texas became a Republic in 1836. In 1845 it was annexed to the United States, becoming a State. The Bluebonnet is the State flower.

The Annual Peach Crop of Texas Is 4,000,900 Bushels
