SAN ANTONIO — The Alamo City

was originally founded in 1535 by Cabeza de Vaca (meaning Cow's Head) and three companions. It was more than one hundred years later before it was permanently established in 1718 with a Mission at San Pedro Springs. In 1730 thirteen families from the Canary Islands landed in San Antonio, establishing the first pure Spanish colonization.

The Alamo—in the heart of the business district blends the old with the new, giving one the first impression of San Antonio's historical background. This Mission, which later became a Fort, was erected in 1754. The memorable battle of The Alamo fought March 6th, 1836 immortalizes the lives of such men as Bowie, Travis and Crockett, defending the Alamo valiantly with only 182 men against Santa Anna's Mexican Army of 4000. Every Texan was killed and it was the remembrance of this battle that gave the battle of San Jacinto, near Houston, resounding with the words "remember the Alamo," the final victory assuring Texas' independence.

April 21, 1836. However, the official declaration of Independence was proclaimed on March 2, 1836. Nine years later in 1845, Texas joined the Union and San Antonio rapidly became the Metropolis of the Southwest.

Many thrilling reminiscences are still told by early settlers of Indian encounters and outlaw terrors. The Spanish Governor's Palace is one of the few original remaining landmarks and has been reconstructed for preservation.

The origin of San Antonio's irregular streets can readily be accredited to the manner of their founding—streets developing from original cow trails and by-paths.

San Antonio the City of Homes, Parks, Military Reservations, "The West Point of the Air", Historic Missions, Sunshine and Gulf Breezes, welcomes you to share her natural advantages. At an altitude of 701 feet, outdoor sports can be enjoyed usually at all times of the year, the atmospheric conditions offering a healthful climate with the assurance of pure, artesian water.

The population of San Antonio now estimated at 325,000 including suburbs, offers you the advantages of a city, mingled with the touch of Texas hospitality, industrial facilities and a wide scope of educational institutions.

With a combination of the above to offer and her position as the "Gateway to Mexico," San Antonio is fast earning the title of "The Tourist's Home".

Good roads abound in Bexar County, leading you Southeast to the Coast—for good fishing; to the West—for Scenic Beauty; to the South, 150 miles to Mexico—the land of color and lure.
